

Cheers to Our Suzuki Seniors!

By Beth Turco

Congratulations to our 20 Suzuki Seniors who all performed beautifully on the Seniors Concerts on January 27 and February 11. These recitals are certainly a milestone for all of us and a wonderful opportunity to come together and celebrate the accomplishments of our Suzuki Seniors.

Make sure to read the seniors essays attached in this email and posted on our website; you'll notice some common themes about the students' musical journeys. Students say music has shaped who they are. That they learned perseverance through practicing challenging passages and staying with music study even during difficult times. That music provided opportunities for them, like playing in chamber groups and traveling on the tours to Europe in 2013 and 2016. Many say music has become an inseparable part of who they are. And most important, music has become a creative outlet for them and brings them calm or joy.

Of course, parents have been on the journey, too. Helping guide students when they were too young to know the importance of Suzuki lessons. Getting creative with charts, stickers and small (or sometimes big) rewards for goals achieved. Driving students to countless lessons, group classes and recitals. Listening to complaints of boredom or pleas to quit, but not giving in to them. Helping students become independent practicers and finally, letting go so students could find their own place for music in their lives.

The journey would not be possible without the teachers. Teachers are honored to be musical mentors for these students and to help them realize our vision for them. These long musical journeys are powerful experiences for us all. Deep bonds are created between students, teachers and parents. A community is formed that helps to pick up the slack when interest wanes.

This community can last a lifetime, far beyond our senior concert experience tonight. Evidence of that was seen at our Suzuki 50th Anniversary Celebration on January 6. Alumni students put on a spectacular showcase of performances to a sold-out crowd. Many students, parents and teachers were eager to be reunited with their Suzuki friends after many years.

Since we all share the common goal of not necessarily producing professional musicians, but of developing noble and kind human beings, through the vehicle of music, it's inevitable that we form a tight knit community and a connection with each other that will last for years to come.

Our entire program came together to support our seniors. A faculty orchestra accompanied the students on the January 27 program, led by conductor Julia Bartsch, who returns every year to help us out. Mischa Santora and the Suzuki Chamber Orchestra accompanied the students on February 11. Annette Lee accompanied other seniors, and spent countless hours coaching and rehearsing with them. Heather VanderLey was the mastermind who coordinated all the details. Many other Suzuki teachers assisted with the event. And the MacPhail Suzuki Association provided wonderful receptions after each concert.

How fortunate we are to be a part of a Suzuki community that supports our students on their musical journey; from the very beginning lessons to the poised, mature Suzuki Seniors' performances we heard at our recent concerts.

Congratulations to all!

SUZUKI STORIES FROM THE PAST

Memories below from Timothy Dresselhaus, a former Suzuki Violin student of Mark Bjork from 1967 - 1970:

I have distinct memories of the three years (1967 - 1970) that my sister (Ann Dresselhaus) and I studied with Mark Bjork before moving to San Diego in 1970. Mr. Bjork helped lay a very solid foundation for our lifelong enjoyment of the violin. In 1970, we continued our studies at a new Suzuki program at San Diego State University under Dr. Ted Brunson; by 1972 we were able to play a very solid duet of the Bach Double (I was 10 years old and Ann 7 years old at the time). Both Ann and I studied with Ted through high school. Though neither of us have pursued the violin vocationally, we have continued to play in various settings, particularly in our local church. Now my children (Noah 15 and Emma 12) are violin students also.

Presently, I am a physician (General Internist) and serve as the Chief, Primary Care Services, VA San Diego Healthcare System and Clinical Professor, Department of Medicine, University of California, San Diego. Ann has worked as a Chief Operating Officer of a company that does historical renovations across Southern California; Ann has one daughter (Elise) and is now proudly a grandmother to 8-month-old Luke.

With gratitude for your decisive contribution to our musical futures, and with congratulations on this 50th anniversary celebration.

Memories from Elise (Martin) Bushard, a former student of Mark Bjork from 1970 – 1983:

I had the opportunity to travel to Japan with my teacher, Mr. Bjork, in the spring of 1975 with a group of MacPhail students and parents. We traveled around, played in a Suzuki "All Japan" concert in Budokan auditorium, then had private lessons for a week with Schinichi Suzuki. It opened my eyes to the world. Suzuki was a very kind man and we would have our individual lessons on a stage in an auditorium sometimes. It was hard for me to understand his accent sometimes because I was only 9 years old, but I enjoyed having him as a teacher.
